

HEALTHY BRAINS

Regular exercise supports healthy neurons.

Physical activity and exercise release dopamine, norepinephrine and neurotrophic factors in the brain.

Research with animals has shown that exercise supports healthy neuron function and can reverse the effects of stress in the brain.

TIP: Incorporating daily movement can help reduce stress and improve cognitive function.

