

Celebrating 10^{YEARS} of Biomedical Research Awareness Day!

The Research Mouse

Mice might be tiny, but they're big heroes in research! These little critters share about 98% of their genes with humans and have super short lifespans, making them perfect for studying diseases like cancer, Alzheimer's, and diabetes. Plus, they help scientists test new medicines to make sure they're safe for people—talk about mighty mice!